SAMPLE PLAY

After the initial set up, tokens are activated and cards are drafted...

Player 1: Choses the build City or Colca action. He plays his starting city card (Nazda). This city my only be built to the left of the Cusco card. It is placed and two tokens from the player's active pool are placed road illustration face-up connecting the two cards. Additional, one token is placed icon face-up to claim the city (in the box next to the city name with the number 1 printed in it).

Player 2: Choses to play an Extra Workforce card. The card is placed in front of her and 1 token is moved from her supply onto the card. She then takes the action listed on the card. In this case two tokens are moved from Supply to her Active pool. The token on the card is then added to her Active pool and the Extra Workforce card is flipped face-down and placed as a terrace.

Player 3: Choses to play a Trade Agreement. He places the card between himself and player 2. Additionally, one token is moved from his supply and is placed on the card. No other action is taken but in the future both player 3 and 2 will reap the benefits of the Trade Agreement card until it is removed during the Terminate Trade Agreements phase.

Player 4: Choses to build a Terrace. One card is played from her hand face-down in front of her. One token is moved from her supply and is placed on the terraced card. Player 4 choses to do nothing else this turn and the token is moved from the terraced card into her Active pool.

Player 1: Choses to build a Colca north of Nazda. The card must be a coastal card. He places two road tokens and one fame token from his Active pool to claim the card. Nazda and the Colca card are now considered to be part of his road system.

Player 2: Choses to build her starting city.

Play continues until all players have passed in this road.

Player 3: Terminate Trade Agreements phase. The Trade Agreement card is discarded and player 3 draws another card of the current Era deck. He may take any action except for the Play Trade Agreement action....
