

Tabletopia specific additional rules

Two counters are associated to every team or player on the digital board: a grey counter symbolizing the ticks announced in this round and a colored counter accumulating the points gathered across the rounds. The counter which is equally colored to the player or one of the team members shows the affiliation.

The 6 player variant uses one pair of counters per team.

The 3 and 4 player variant offers a pair of counters in front of every player. In the 4 player variant, the team can decide for themselves if they want to keep track of the trumps announced and points accumulated with only one pair of counters.

In the 3 player variant, the fourth seat stays vacant.

A silver dealer button symbolizes the player who dealt the cards this round, thus showing that the next two players announce the trump number and color.

The cards can either be distributed by the dealer dealing them (“Deal X Cards”) or by each player drawing the cards by themselves (“Draw X Cards”).

When announcing the trump, the dice and the colored markers are used to visualize the current trump during the round.
