YOU ARE MEKTON IF YOU
SABOTAGE OTHER DASHERS MORE
THAN 5 TIMES

WHICH TEKT N are you

Every builder has their own story. Take your move, solve the mission, and discover which Tekton matches with your building spirit!

Doowy King for the day

Tektonia's chief architect, who rules over every construction detail with royal precision. No brick shall be placed without his grand approval!

Look at you—the King! You ruled this race, and Your Majesty's rightful victory was all but guaranteed. In life, you're that annoying friend who wins at everything. But, heavy is the head that wears the crown, so don't be surprised if your friends start plotting a little sabotage of their own. Even still, relish in your victory for the time being, champ!

Guggle The Virtuoso

The famous wall painter in the city of Tektonia. During the race, he does two things: collects magical tiles while he paints the arena.

Oh no, your brush slipped! You could already picture your perfect victory when—splat!—someone dashed by, smearing your masterpiece. You're the artist who always seems to have things all sketched out until suddenly there's an unexpected splatter. Keep your vision clear but don't fixate on the tiny details—you never know what could happen. But hey, second place still gets you a spot in the gallery, just with a little more side-eye.

Tuck The Treasure-Hunter

Tuck is the miner who naively believes there's a magical tile on the mine. Hours of digging, he found nothing, but rocks shaped like the tiles.

Your faith in finding treasure is both endearing and inspiring! While others see ordinary rocks, you see endless possibilities in every dig. That spirit keeps you searching alone, convinced the next swing will reveal something magical. Your determination shines bright, but remember—the greatest treasures are found together, with your fellow Tektons. Sometimes digging deeper makes you further away from the finish line!

Gron The Wanderlust

1/4-5

The ultimate explorer. With a map he found in the backyard, Gron nearly discovers the greatest shortcut in history—until the dead end stops him

Two paths diverged in the Tekton woods, and you took the one less traveled. You were blazing a new trail, but somewhere along the path, you got a little lost in the twists and turns. It's a reminder that even when you're ahead, it's easy to lose your way in the thicket of life. But still, never lose your sense of adventure! Even though you ended in fourth by the time you wandered back to the main road—you've got more stories to tell!

Woobly The Klutz

A whirlwind of energy and chaos, Woobly is always first to start, last to remember why – treating every project like a sprint to nowhere!

Whoopsie daisy, the tragic slip from hero to zero. You ran the marathon, only to trip at the finish line. But at least in life, everyone is entertained by your epic comebacks—and equally epic wipeouts. Sixth place might sting, but hey, at least you made it fun! Just remember each time to get back on your feet and keep racing!

Manna The Alchemist

Manna mixes his formulas meticulously into precise constructions. No wonder his ruler is worn from measuring every brick!

You were simmering in second place, concocting your grand scheme, when—zap!—your perfect elixir catapulted you into first. Your brilliant, unpredictable methods paid off in time. Your knack for crafting bold strategies has brewed challenges into triumphs. Keep experimenting and refining your approach; your next big breakthrough is just around the corner. First place is where your genius shines brightest, and the world is eager to see what you'll create next!

Tutu The Balerina

Tutu pirouettes through challenges with endless cheer. Her perfect balance isn't just for show – it's her secret to building success!

You danced with all you could, but there was always someone stealing your spotlight just as you were about to take center stage. Placing second in both rounds reveals your grace and precision, just a breath away from perfection.

Don't let this shadow your spirit—your next performance is poised to captivate. Keep rehearsing with passion; the stage is set for your moment to shine as the prima ballerina.

Hatz The Hardhat

Don't let the basic tools fool you – Hatz believes it's not about perfect blueprints, it's about perfect hammer time!

You were hammering away at the top spot when an unfortunate mishap sent you tumbling to third place. Even with a setback, your work ethic and grit are tough as steel. This is just a temporary delay in the construction of your next big win. Get back to work with that unstoppable drive of yours—before long, you'll be building your way back to the top and even adding a few more trophies to your toolkit!

Chuck The Dam Master

The master of shortcuts, Chuck turns rivers into roadways! Need to cross a river? Dam it! Mountain in the way? Flood it!

Turns out not every problem needs a dam to solve it – you got so caught up in your water works, you lost sight of your true goal. The biggest challenge is staying focused – even master engineers need to balance their blueprints with their beaver instincts. Keep building those shortcuts, just maybe not ALL of them at once!

Te-bell The General

A perfectionist general who turns every build into a military operation. No brick moves without a proper strategic briefing – even if it takes all day!

Your battle plans and tactical brilliance had victory in sight, but while you were perfecting your strategies, the battlefield changed beneath your feet! Now you're commanding from sixth place – turns out even the greatest generals need to adapt their blueprints on the fly. Sometimes you just need to say 'go' and not overthink every single detail. Be ready for your next battle – you know the way!

3/1

Cammy Camouflage

Cammy plays the game differently—he loves blending into the environment, playing a sneaky game of hide and seek, looking for the right times to strike.

You were lying low in the middle pack, just waiting to catch the perfect timing to jump and when the opportunity came, you pounced! In life, you keenly observe the perfect chance and seize it. Patience is sweet, but victory tastes even sweeter. You'll have an opportunity coming your way soon—keep that sharp eye out on the prowl.

Wiggie The Gymnast

This gymnast builder turns every construction into a workout session. For him, building is just another way to feel the burn!

Whew that really worked up a sweat! There's nothing like a good workout to get you into a good mood. You muscled your way up from third to second rep by rep. Just like in the gym, every set counts for you because you see every setback as a shot at your new personal best. You're all about progress, pushing your limits, and never hitting pause. Second place is just a warm-up for your true potential—keep grinding, and that top spot is within reach!

Roc-a-Billy The Adonis

Roc a Billy, the hairstylist, stops mid-race to check his hair with a pocket mirror. He says, "Winning is great, but grooming is everything!"

Others might call it the middle of the road, but to you, it's the total center of attention! Who cares about the race? The most important thing is that you look good, and from here, everyone can be in close proximity to your unparalleled beauty. Consider this your comfort zone—now, how about trying out a new look? A crown would suit your sparkling eyes, and your radiant charm could shine even brighter from the first place!

3/4-5

Bali The Box-ing

Bali approaches building like boxing – one brick, two brick, holding until the end. Even if he doesn't always win, his spirit is unbreakable.

You might've taken a step down, but you're still in the ring with your gloves up. In life, you're the fighter who can roll with the punches and keep swinging. Fourth place isn't where you began, but you're far from being counted out. You're tough, quick on your feet, and always ready for the next round. Keep your head in the ring—you've got the stamina and skill to land that knockout punch!

Nielstron The Astron

Nielstron dreams of building Space Tektonia among the stars, but gravity keeps pulling him back. Even in his heavy astronaut suit, he refuses to let his cosmic ambitions crash land!

You've struggled to maintain your position, slipping from third to sixth. With big dreams in mind, obstacles keep dragging you down, blocking your path to success. In life, you might fear losing something while chasing your dreams. Yes, losing is tough, but when things go wrong and hinder what truly matters to you, remember—you know what to do!

Ponky The Leakproof

Ponky's feet are shaking for holding his stomach's grunge. Building as fast as he can and rushing himself for the bathroom call.

Nature calls, and so did the finish line! You were darting through the race, not just to win, but to finally get to the sweet relief of the bathroom. In life, you're the type who knows how to push through any obstacle when it really matters—even if that obstacle is a full bladder. There has never been a greater testament to the perseverance of the human will. First place is yours, and now you've got all the time in the world for that much-needed aahhhh—just maybe think ahead a little more next time!

Leafy The Clover Fortune

With a green thumb and questionable planning, Leafy scattered clovers across the track like confetti, not realizing she blocked the ways for others.

You played a winning hand moving from fourth to second! You flirted with risk, masterfully tangoing with chance and guiding the swirls of fortune around you. You're hitting your lucky streak, and teasing the odds is becoming more and more irresistible. Be bold, take risks, but stay sharp, and you'll watch that prize pool rack up. Your game is still just starting to heat up, and the jackpot might be just a shuffle away!

Bong The Rockstar

Known as the Rockstar Builder, he constructs towering buildings just to play his greatest hits from the top, creating the most exciting energy in the competition.

Cranking it up to third place—you're moving closer to hitting that groove! In life, you dance to the beat of your own drum and move at your own pace, one step at a time. You've got the goods to keep the good vibes going, and third place is proof that you're on the right track. Just a little more hustle, and you'll be jamming at the top of the podium next time!

Doll-B The Play-by-Play

4-5/4-5

The youngest sibling of the triplets with the role of spectator and commentator for every fumble that happens.

He shoots! He scores! He comes in fourth! While you didn't exactly rewrite the playbook or make any game-changing moves yourself, you made every moment feel like a highlight reel with your booming broadcasting techniques. You know how to keep the crowd buzzing and the drama alive. The next game's broadcast might just feature your most riveting play yet!

Fizzle The Party Pooper

Fizzle is the life of the party, always bringing big surprises to keep the fun going. But today, it's his turn to get surprised.

Dropping from fourth to six? That's like having your birthday party ruined as you were about to cut the cake. While others celebrate at the top, you're left feeling the sting of missing out. You know how to party hard, but you also know how to handle things when they don't go your way. So, it's okay to feel a little grumpy—just remember, there's always next year!

Lucky The Rocket

Lucky is a mechanical builder who crafts rockets for building efficiency. One launch is all he needs to turn the tide!

You soared from last to first like a rocket breaking through the atmosphere! In life, you're the ultimate comeback kid, demonstrating that what matters is not your launch pad, but your explosive finale. Just when everyone thought they had you figured out, you played your ultimate power-up! Your ascent shows that with the right fuel and trajectory, you can reach stellar heights. Keep aiming for the stars—your next lift-off could be even more spectacular!

Mag Mechatronics

Mag combines machinery and magic to build a safer, more efficient world. His innovative approach is proving more effective with each creation.

From the depths of sixth to the heights of second—now that's what we call mechanical magic! Your innovative spirit turned what could have been a technical disaster into a near-victory. See how shifting your mindset toward greater efficiency can make all the difference. It's okay to have a rough start—over time, you'll discover better ways to improve. Just remember, even the greatest machines need a little warmup time.

Loaf The Sloth

Loaf has perfected the art of efficient building - minimal movement, maximum results. As he likes to say between naps, every yawn is perfectly calculated!

Yawn... Is the race already over? You were just dozing off in sixth, and somehow, you've drifted up to third. In life, you're the master of the slow game, proving that sometimes, it's not always about taking the hardest path to finish third place without even trying? Now that's the dream. Keep on taking it easy—why rush when you can just relax your way to the top?

6/4-5

Chant The Cheerleader

While others race ahead, Chant finds victory in lifting spirits from behind. Their enthusiastic cheers turn every builder's small wins into moments of triumph!

Look at you climbing up a notch – that's a win worth cheering about! When it comes to cheering yourself on, you're the ultimate MVP. Fourth place might not be the top spot, but it's a leap from where you started. Keep those pom-poms shaking and that cheerleader spirit high. In the grand game of life, every bit of progress deserves a standing ovation. Remember, every step forward is another reason to celebrate!

Specs The Superfan

The youngest sibling of the triplets—a spectator and avid race fan. He even booked his spot and brought popcorn to watch the show.

Sixth place twice—looks like you've discovered the perfect vantage point! Sometimes, the best view is from the sidelines, where you can watch all the action unfold without getting caught in the whirlwind. In life, you know how to stay out of drama, but that doesn't mean you don't enjoy watching the chaos unfold. Grab your popcorn—you're mastering the art of staying cool and collected while the world swirls around you!

WHICH

are you

Is it fun to bring more chaos? You bet! Take your power card, sabotage others, and discover which Mekton matches your rebellious spirit!

Primo The Havoc

He has a ritual of eating spicy food before building; the burning sensation boosts his creativity, and there he is on the podium celebrating his hot streak.

Behold the King of Anarchy, ruling from first place with a scepter of chaos and a bag of searing hot peppers! Your reign has turned the game into a kingdom of pandemonium, where your fiery touch has set the stage ablaze. As monarch of mayhem, keep embracing your regal revolt and let your unpredictability rule the realm. In your dominion, chaos is the law, and everyone must disobey!

Glud The Stick

Glud is a kind-hearted Mekton who can't resist fixing cracked buildings and roads, always ready to glue everything back together.

What's the stickiest thing on the planet? A stick! Just kidding, it's the glue you're stuck in... You laid down the traps, sticking your rivals in place like flies caught in honey. But oh, the irony—caught in your own sticky web, you got overtaken for first. Your carefully crafted glue trap turned out to be a bit too adhesive, even for you. Let this be a lesson to not set up traps against your own progress. Next time, make sure it's your enemies who can't wiggle free!

Ninu The Backfirer

Bored by easy victories, Ninu spices up every race with self-imposed challenges. Sometimes these tricks backfire, but that's half the fun!

You've had the smoothest start imaginable – almost too smooth for your taste! Your natural inclination for excitement draws you to add spontaneous challenges to your journey. While your playful schemes might backfire now and then (literally, in your case!), at least you're never bored. Destiny has its own thrills in store – sometimes crossing that finish line is all the excitement you need!

Molehill The Tunneler

1/4-5

Molehill shapes the underground into twisting mazes.

Other Mektons might find themselves taking an unplanned detour through these impressive tunnels!

Digging deep beneath the competition to come out on top! Tunneling to victory would've been a great strategy except somewhere along the way, you took a wrong turn and ended up unearthing a whole lot of nothing. Now, you find yourself in fourth, with more dirt on your hands than a winning strategy. When you're shoveling for treasure, remember to stay on the right track. But hey, sometimes you strike gold, and sometimes you just hit rock bottom.

Piddy The Slippery Slope

The well-known tall structure builder in Tektonia, never miscalculated his own creation – except this one time.

You were on the highest rung of the ladder at first, with mischief in mind and a bucket of water ready to rain down on your victims beneath you. But one slippery rung sent you spiraling down, turning your high hopes into a crashing defeat. Next time, watch your step and keep a firm grip on your ambitions. You might have slipped up this round, but remember, even the slickest ladders can be conquered with a bit of caution.

Hope The Seer

The Oracle Mekton conjures a plasma ball to foresee the upcoming tiles, keeping her one step ahead of everyone else. "Guessing the future? Nah, it's just tile-vision!"

Your predictions are spot on—propelling you from second place to first! Armed with sharp instincts honed by knowledge, research, and experience, you're not just reacting—you're anticipating the future and preparing for any setbacks. With this edge, you've risen above the competition, proving that foresight is your greatest strength. Keep that inner eye sharp – the future looks promising!

Zo The Gleaner

Zo meticulously maintains the perfect distance behind first place, sweeping up every opportunity along the way with unwavering dedication and a cheerful whistle.

Your oversized broom isn't just for show – it's your ticket to gathering every opportunity that others miss. While the leader blazes ahead, you've found your sweet spot in second place, singing cheerfully "Na-na-naaa" as you sweep up all the treasures in your path. Leaving everyone else in the dust, you've swept your way to a comfortable second place.

Rolla-trolla The Chaos Bowler

Rolla-trolla turns tile collection into a contact sport, bouncing and bowling through the course with chaotic enthusiasm. Every roll creates both masterpieces and mayhem!

You're a rolling enthusiast with a flair for the dramatic! When you roll, you lose all sense of direction and control – but that's exactly how you like it. As you roll from side to side, the tiles press into your belly, back, and every inch of your body—you like to call it "collecting tiles with style." Usually, your chaotic strategy works wonders, but today, that strategy didn't pay off. You got a bit too caught up in the style and ended up losing your shot at victory.

Sprink The Firecracker

Sprink is the firework artist, trapping rivals with a firework show but boosting them instead, letting them pass. "Oops, not what I planned!"

Wow, you went all out! Armed with fireworks, you thought you'd light up the competition—literally! But instead of a dazzling display, things got wildly out of hand. The explosions were spectacular, but the chaos? Your quest for sabotage was a blast but also blew up in your face, leaving you in fifth. At least you made sure everyone noticed! Maybe dial it back—or not. Sometimes, a little overkill is just what the show needs.

Jack The Distracted Genius

Jack often gets so absorbed in his book that he doesn't notice announcements. He finishes the first round and completely forgets about the next one.

You're the brightest mind in the arena, crafting innovative designs all over Tektonia. But lately, your genius has wandered into unexpected territory. Between chapters of brilliant theory, you've somehow engineered your own spectacular descent. Those 'innovative experiments' went a bit too far! Who would think getting lost in books could lead to such creative chaos? Next time, less reading more building – unless there's a new book!

Pog The Puppeteer

Too shy to take center stage, Pog lets his golden puppet do the building while he orchestrates from the shadows.

You are the master puppeteer—moving the right tiles from a safe place. With a flick of your wrist, you turned the competition into your performance, pulling all the strings from the shadows. As others went through the motions, you rose from third to first. In life, you're a subtle influencer, adept at guiding situations and people with a gentle hand. Embrace this gift—your quiet confidence conducts an orchestra of possibilities.

Coon Freebird

Coon's favorite spot is the highest building in Tektonia, watching the birds fly by, dreaming of joining them. "Say no more"—heart full of courage, this dreamer took flight!

Your willingness to think outside the box helped you soar from third to second place in ways others never imagined. Every flap shows your resilience and ability to navigate challenges with grace—those wings of yours are getting stronger with each leap. From your bird's-eye view, you see paths others miss, turning the sky into your playground. Keep those wings spread wide—there's still higher to fly!

Bubble The Steady Hand

Living an average life suits Bubble just fine. Average building, average pranks, and an average score. But it's all good—he keeps his place steady.

Huh? Um... well you tried your best to toss the game up a bit, but nothing really happened in the end. Congrats on your third-place finish? Your builds weren't flashy, your moves weren't spectacular—just solid, steady work from start to finish. While others rode the waves of brilliant success and crushing failure, you maintained your course straight to third place. Maybe being dependable isn't so average after all?

3/4-5

Nemo Nautic-ton

Nemo's optimism over building underwater couldn't be defeated - until he discovered that stabilizing the structure was harder than he expected.

You want to control everything—until you realize that not everything needs a tight grip! Sure, being in charge feels great and gives you a cozy sense of security, but life is like a wild river, flowing freely. Sometimes, unexpected waves crash in and mess up your plans, leaving you with little choice but to go with the flow. So, sprinkle in some patience and be open to surprises; sometimes the best adventures come from plans gone mess!

Upton Stairs to the sky

The stairs-building Mekton is on a mission to make history by entering the Geniuses of Tektonia Record for constructing the tallest staircase in all of Tektonia.

Your ambitious spirit drove you to build higher and higher, chasing that record-breaking dream. The climb to third place felt like just another step toward the stars! But in your rush to reach the top, you lost your footing and tumbled to sixth. Maybe those stairs to the sky need a stronger foundation—next time, take it one step at a time, and don't forget—speed is valuable, but only when paired with the right direction

Coy The Silent Artist

Coy, a pantomime master, builds in silence. No one knows what he's up to—every gesture looks like he's framing an invisible window.

Through your silent exaggerated gestures, you're an endearing figure who navigates life's challenges with humor and resilience. In life, you're the type who knows how to remain hopeful and persistent despite facing numerous hardships in silence. You focus more on achieving than fixating on the obstacles. Who knew staying quiet could make such noise? First Place is yours—no words needed!

Rolly Rodin The Curve Master

Rolly rodin turns every structure into a rounded building, prioritizing aesthetics and sacrificing functionality—leaving the whole civilization going in circles!

Just like a circle that has no edges, in life you are aware that every structure flows into the next with artistic grace. While others build in straight lines, you see the beauty in curves. You are emotionally resilient. You are bold enough to embrace challenges as opportunities to learn and adapt. Keep rolling with those ideas—sometimes the most beautiful solutions aren't about cutting corners, but smoothing them!

Wimp-womp Survivor

Wimp-womp, the Mekton with artistic flair, creates uniquely unstable structures. With a snap of his fingers, buildings topple like dominoes. He's the only architect who offers a "falling guarantee!"

People marvel at your persistence in the game—when structures fall, you rise. Though nothing went according to plan and your builds kept toppling, that fighting spirit never wavered. Through sheer determination, you climbed to third place, turning architectural disasters into stepping stones. Your buildings may collapse, but your spirit? Unbreakable! Keep that resilience—sometimes the best foundations are built on previous falls.

Blaze The Firefighter

4-5/4-5

When Blaze spots a fire, he knows exactly what to do—flood everything! While others carefully construct their builds, you're making waves—literally.

You're definitely a unique kind of firefighter—instead of precise water control, you believe in total aquatic domination! Your strategy of 'flood first, ask questions later' has become your lifestyle. Your head is cool, and you know what to do, just learn to control that overflow of ideas. Sometimes the best way to win at anything is to keep it simple. Fourth place isn't bad—maybe next time try fighting fires instead of starting floods!

Stinx The Dumpster

Stinx is known for his relentless determination in the competition. No matter how many times he's tossed into the dirt, covered in banana peels, he keeps pushing forward.

That wild determination? That's your superpower! You're the master of messy mayhem, diving through chaos with a determination that's both impressive and slightly concerning! No point crying over spilled trash—what's done is done! Sure, you can't rewind the chaos, but you certainly could do a rematch! The messier the battle, the sweeter the victory!

Blonk The Secret Strategist

Behind an innocent smile, Blonk plays the long game. While others show their hand early, this crafty builder saves the best tricks for the perfect moment.

What a brilliant display of strategic patience! Playing the innocent newcomer while quietly preparing your master moves—that's some next-level thinking. You let others celebrate their early victories while methodically setting up your grand finale. You're crafty and baffled everyone with that hidden potential, but next time try winning faster—stress and anxiety aren't the best companions.

Zino The Bait

Zino pursues his dreams just like he catches fish! With his rod and bait ready, he casts into the sea of opportunity. He reels in a surprise —hooked on that sweet victory!

Like a determined angler chasing that elusive prize, you keep casting your line toward first place—but it keeps swimming away! Landing in sixth place shows how tricky those waters can be. You're the type who sees success and dives right in, forgetting to check the depth first. That passionate spirit makes you charming, but patience might help you read the currents better. Keep fishing for victory, but remember: the best catch comes when you're not trying.

Plod The Rampage

While others build up, Plod breaks it all down. This hot-headed builder has a unique building philosophy: can't build wrong if nothing's left standing!

Your approach to construction is uniquely... destructive! When others carefully placed blocks, you were busy turning the ground into rubble. That fiery determination to do things your way is both your strength and weakness. You're the type who sees an obstacle and smashes through rather than go around it—which, surprisingly, works! With all that energy, imagine what you could build next time—something spectacular is waiting to happen!

6/4-5

Dolce The Race Reporter

Dolce, the second of the triplets, is a newswriter who pauses mid-race to jot down updates. She happily falls behind, confident her reports will turn out fine, then refocuses on the race.

Your passion for storytelling takes priority over the race itself—how refreshing! While others sprint for the finish line, you pause to capture every dramatic moment. Having studied everyone's strategies through your thorough reporting, you've studied everyone's successes and mistakes from a safe distance, gathering precious insights. Next time, try being the headline instead of writing it!

Wiggleton The Twerp

A troublemaker at heart, Wiggleton focuses on having fun rather than winning. For him, enjoying the game is more important than the outcome!

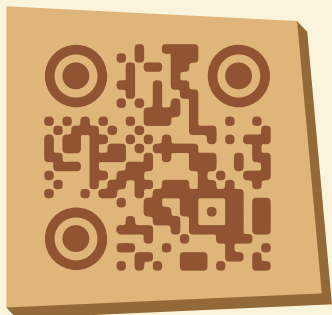

You're radiating enthusiasm, turning every moment into an adventure. That fearless spirit of yours knows no pressure, just the thrill of trying wild new tricks. Remember, when they say 'you're doing it wrong,' you're probably doing it exactly right. Let others worry about rankings; you've found the secret to stress-free racing. Keep being boldly you—some victories don't need a trophy!
